What is Deconstruction?

Deconstruction is the selective dismantlement of homes and buildings with the purpose of keeping building materials out of the landfill so that these items can be reused, repurposed, or recycled.

Who to call?

Missoula has many local resources that can help to reuse and recycle construction materials. The following deconstruction professionals can help from start to finish:

Why choose deconstruction over demolition?

- Saves money. Donating and recycling construction materials saves money by cutting disposal costs.
- Tax deductions. You can deduct the value of donated construction materials to the extent the law allows.
- Creates local and affordable materials stream. Reusing building material creates a local source of affordable building supplies, and reduces demand for new materials.
- Reduces waste. Prevents valuable materials from unnecessarily going to the landfill, preserving economic value and land.
- Good for community health. Fully using resources contributes to clean air, clean water and less toxins.
- Local business development and local jobs. Creates demand for local business services and resulting jobs.
